FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 6.

COURAGE TESTED. - An instance of more than Roman firmness, which occurred a few days since in the county of Hanover, has reached us through a private letter received in this city. A young lady, who since the death of her mother has had control of the dome stic affairs of her father, was left in possession of the premises, accompanied only by three small children and a negro girl some fifteen or sixteen years of age. The father, who had gone to court, did not reach home until nearly 9 o'clock. When nearing his residence he heard footsteps, as of persons running in a field close to his house, but being unarmed he did not pursue the parties. Upon alighting from his horse and knocking at his door he was refused admittance until his voice was recognized by his daughter. A few minutes previous, it appeared, two negro men had demanded that the door be opened, but the daughter declared that under no circumstances would their demand be complied with. They then threatened to break down the door with an axe, but nothing daunted, the daughter still persisted in her refusal. They next declared that they would fire the building, and the young lady heard them under the house as if carrying out their diabolical intention, but with a firmness worthy of any cause, she remained inexorable. Just at this trying emergency the footsteps of the returning father fell upon the ears of the scoundrels, and they fled precipitately. The neighbors turned out the next morning and tracked the marauders some distance, but all traces were finally lost in a pine thicket from which the snow had disappeared. When it is known that the lady is just entering her seventeenth year, of delicate build and somewhat nervous constitution, her Roman firmness under such trying circumstances is all the more remarkable and commendable.-Richmond Examiner.
